The Fatal Fitting.
Yesterday I was calling on a friend who lives in a fashionable New York apartment. She told me she went every morning for a "fitting."

"Your mean in the spring and fall, when you are getting your things, don't you?"
"No, I mean every day, through the eight winter months. It's an awful nuisance. No wonder I'm a nervous wreck. I wish John would let me wear ready-made things. It's absurd, but it's a fact that I hardly ever go through the day without going either to the tailor, the dressmaker, or to try on hats or shoes or corsets. I have a good many things made between seasons, when the prices are lower. And I have to squeeze in time to go shopping; for while I but very little in the shops, I want to see what the new imported things look like, and go to the openings. I've discovered a dear little

Free Engineering Advice

Our Industrial Power Department is composed of specialists in the application of gas for power, either through the gas engine or steam boiler.

We offer you assistance in solving your power problem without obligation to you.

Our advice is given only after we make careful tests of your present equipment. A report of these tests will be left with you whether you decide to do business with us or not.

If others in your line of business can profitably use gas power, you can, also.

There is no time like "NOW" to get the facts as they apply to your case.

Sex Hygiene.
We recognize the importance of teaching sex hygiene, but believe that the place for giving such instruction to be the home; the school should be willing to help the home, if instruction in sex hygiene is to be given in school, by teachers qualified for such work.—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, Chicago Schools.

TESTED RECIPES.
Pineapple Salad.
A can of Hawaiian pineapples forms the basis of the salad. This pineapple is cut into half-inch slices, and there should be two slices for each plate, with two or three crisp hearts of lettuce leaves beneath. The dressing is made of half a cup of the pineapple juice, half a lemon and the yolks of four eggs cooked to a thin custard and then thinned just before serving, with a little cream. This rich, thick dressing is poured over the pineapple slices, and on top is put a little grated cheese with one or two bits of English walnut. With the delicious salad serve thin water biscuits made crisp and brown by being set in the oven for five minutes.

Date Cream.
Put into a saucepan three cupsful of sugar, one and a half cupsful of water, a pinch of cream of tartar, and boil until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water; then remove from the fire, add one cupful of stoned and chopped dates and one teaspoonful of rose extract, and beat until it becomes creamy, and pour into a buttered tin. Cut up when cold.

How Silver Is Arranged.
The accepted way of arranging silver at each cover is to place the forks at the left of the plate in the order in which they are to be used and the knives and spoons at the right in the same order. This does not include the silver for dessert. Bread and butter spreaders are frequently laid on the bread plates. For a dinner of soup, meat salad, desert and coffee, the silver is arranged thus: at the left of the plates, the fork for meat on the outside and the salad fork next; at the right of the plate the meat knife next to the plate and the soup spoons next to it on the outside. Bouillon spoons are used for soup.—Woman's Home Companion.

Selecting Pictures.
The first important step in making a home beautiful is the selection of proper pictures for different rooms.
The formal parlor has gradually disappeared from the average American home, leaving in its place the more companionable living-room, where the family congregates and receive friends. Pictures chosen for it should, therefore, be of general interest. Family portraits and photographs of friends are decidedly out of place.
The casual caller should not be required to sit and gaze at intimate pictures; personal pictures have a more fitting place in the privacy of bedrooms. Reproductions of good paintings or the original paintings themselves are always in good taste for the living-room.
Selections for the dining-room will readily suggest themselves; pictures of good cheer, of convivial gatherings, of animals and hunting scenes are suitable.

A Word About The Military Inspection

On Saturday evening, February 13th, 1915, at 7 o'clock, at the Armory will be held the inspection of the local Military Companies "H" and "I," and the First Regiment Band. These organizations at the present time are in splendid condition, are developing a high state of efficiency and should be the pride of the city in which they are located.

There was a time in the history of this country when such bodies of men, banded together under military law and jurisdiction, for the purpose of defending their State and their country, if need be, were looked up to and held in high esteem by their fellow citizens, in the respective communities in which they were located; but this has never been the case in the city of Fairmont—at least not in our day and generation.
I know there are those among our good citizens who look upon these organizations and their work, as idle and useless child's play, serving no other purpose than that of more show, and in addition to that a burden upon the tax payers of the state. This class of our citizens is represented by those who advocate the policy that we should beat our swords into plowshares, and that wars should be no more—and to this we say amen.

No body of our citizens more deeply deplores the horrors of war or are more sincere advocates of a universal peace than this our citizen soldiery; and who, will it be said, is better informed on this subject than those men who are devoting so much of their time in the study of this great question in its relation to, and as it affects the great interests of this splendid country of ours.

To that respectable body of our citizens, who look upon us as a burden to the state and a detriment to the business interests of our community, and who boasts in their ill-advised, and ill-informed doctrines, that our country is immune from local dispensations from within, and foreign attack from without, we but ask that you raise your eyes, and look across the sea today! Are you so thoroughly informed and so well advised upon the subject that you can state without fear of contradiction that among this hundred million restless people within our domain no internal disturbances will mar our record? Are you as one of this vast body of our citizens, able to predict, with any degree of certainty, that out of this world-wide restiveness and international contention that we will be able to steer our great ship of state through these turbulent waters, safe into that much longed for haven of peace?

ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY IS WOMAN

Jean de Greyer Holds Important Place in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Since the women of this state were granted suffrage the number of women lawyers has greatly increased. Many cases, it is said, are better handled by women than by men, and their services are in big demand.

One of the most prominent female lawyers in the country and the only woman assistant district attorney is Miss Jean de Greyer, who has recently been appointed to this responsible position by the district attorney here. It has been found that she is better able to get testimony from women and has given a great part of her time to settling domestic troubles.

She was named more as an experiment than anything else, but since assuming the duties has proved such a big aid that district attorneys in other cities are likely to follow the example here.

Legless Man Sows Wheat Crop.
Hollis, Kan.—Although he lost both legs in a railroad accident two years ago, L. M. Ashcraft, who lives on a farm near here, put in fifty acres of wheat this fall, doing all the work himself with the exception of the harnessing of the horses.

by your happy children made glad by comfort, luxuries and the greatest culture and refinement, that any civilization of this world has even known, and you say to yourself, and in effect, to your neighbors, that under this great flag, whose government guarantees equal rights to all, and special privileges to none, and whose liberal constitution speaks life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness that you have reached the zenith of human attainment, and that you are secure! So thought Belshazzar as he sat with his lords at the great feast in the long ago—and lo! the handwriting upon the wall and his kingdom passed away in a night. So thought King Albert—Belgium, whose people were industriously and happily engaged in the business pursuits of the day—when on came the hordes of the Germans and swept from the face of the earth the hopes of that happy people, and tonight by the thousands his subjects are wandering through other countries, despondent, heartbroken and homeless.

As said but a few days ago by our able Dr. Broomfield in speaking from his pulpit, "We are surrounded by 'thin ice,' and fortunate may we be considered if we pass through the next few months without international complications, serious and far-reaching in their consequences."

No less authority than President Wilson has said in a recent message that we need a good navy and a strong and efficient army—and who of the great men of our country have been so notoriously the advocates of peace as the President and Mr. Bryan?

There are others among our good people who say they believe we are the enemies of organized labor, and of the labor interests. As effects our local state, we only ask that you go up and down the valleys of Paint and Cabin creeks—the only place we have been on trial—and we stand willing to accept from the people residing there, the verdict they give as our record.

We often hear on the streets of our town criticism of some of the men in our ranks, and hear people speak in derisive terms of the personnel of our companies. Our only reply to these unkind words, is, are you or your son doing anything to better conditions for us? Are you giving any of your time or spending any of your surplus money in helping us maintain higher standards? We can say without fear of contradiction today that no set of men in all of our government's machinery are giving so much valuable time, or performing such arduous service, without pay and without commendation, as the men in the ranks of the militia. The burdens imposed upon us of the state, and more especially by the federal government, are growing day by day until we are not scarcely able to hear them—and yet we go on in our quiet way and perform our duties as best we can without murmur or complaint to the public.

This inspection of these local organizations, which will take place on February 13th, will be conducted by Major of the United States Army and by one from the seat of our state government. The inspection is imposing its appearance, and interesting in every detail. These companies in line will make a splendid appearance, and are worthy of your warm commendation. That excellent First Regiment Band, our state's pride or organization—will play while the inspection is going on, some of its choicest selections.

We are citizens, as you are citizens; your home, is our home; your country, our country; under the flag which floats over your head, we stand ready at all times, at the risk of our lives to protect you, your property, your life, your home and your family. Turn out on that evening and show us by your smiles and your presence that we have for our organization here, your sympathy, your friendship, your good will. Let us have a full house on that night, and we will feel that we are amply repaid for what we have done in the past, and be encouraged in our fight of the future.

Death Reveals 'Man' To Have Been a Girl

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—In the dingy kitchen of a third-story flat, at No. 2146 Ogden avenue, lies the body of "Ben" Rosenstein, who lived for seven years as a married man and whose identification as a woman came Sunday, when "he" died.
Beside the body sits Pauline Rosenstein, "Ben's" wife, weeping and praying. Near her is her wrinkled mother, just over from Odessa, who does not understand.
The strange story of the two women was told by the "widow" today. "Ben's" name was Ida Weinstein when she came from Russia. She

THINGS TO FORGET.

If you see a tall fellow at the head of a crowd,
A leader of men, marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud
Would cause his proud head to in anguish bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.
If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet, and guarded, and kept from the day
In the dark; and whose showing, whose sudden display
Would cause grief and sorrow and life-long dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.
If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile, or the least way annoy
A fellow, or cause and gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.
